

About the East Coast Ministry Clinic – September 26 – 29

The East Coast Ranch Ministry Clinic was created in 2015 by Alison Boyd, co-founder of Wings of Hope Ranch, to connect people annually who are involved in a equine or ranch type non-profit ministry that brings people groups (children, veterans, special needs, human trafficking victims, etc.) together to share ideas, wisdom and fellowship.

Often these ministries utilize horses. Some also incorporate farm animals and related activities like art, gardening and woodworking to minister to their chosen people/clients. Participants are primarily from the East Coast but we have people from across the US attend.

The clinic includes worship and praise, meals, and educational sessions on ministry, programming, horse training, fundraising, and other related topics pertinent to people serving in this way. Presenters are a mix of fellow ministry leaders as well as industry experts with a national presence.

It's amazing to see the impact the Clinic has as each participant goes back refreshed and brings high caliber programming to serve a need in their community at no cost to their clients.

To be a part of this educational experience we invite you to be an Event Sponsor. Sponsors help keep the costs of the clinic at a minimum so participants that are offering their programs to their communities can attend without it being a financial burden.
